State School Desegregation...Answers Are Being Sought

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — If State Education Commissioner Ewald B. Nyquist chose to act, virtually every major city in the state could be hit with a school desegregation order.

A United Press International study of racial distribution among the major districts shows that cities from Middletown to Jamestown apparently fail to meet the Board of Regents' goal of having every school represent a "cross section" of the district.

In fact, 18 years after the historic U. S. Supreme Court decision, New York schools are still heavily segregated by housing patterns.

In the 1970 - 71 school year, three-fourths of the 860,000 black and Puerto Rican students attended schools where they made up more than 50 per cent of the enrollment.

Although Nyquist has announced a "go slow" attitude in the politically sensitive area, he recently issued integration orders for Utica and Buffalo—and requested more information from Poughkeepsie.

And, as the segregation continues, the commissioner is considering asking the legislature for a brand new integration device: Crossing school district lines, or, basically, exchanging students between the cities and suburbs.

Nyquist endorsed the principle by which a federal court ordered Richmond, Va., to integrate with two suburban districts, and ordered his counsel, Robert D. Stone, to see what changes were needed to permit such plans in New York.

"We're still digging," Stone said. "By now, we've identified the questions, and we're looking for the answers."

Among current obstacles, he said, are tax and debt limits of some districts, laws for consolidation of districts, and questions how state aid would go to anyone ordered to merge.

Stone said it was "too early to tell" if Nyquist would propose anything. Conservative legislators have already threatened to take action if Nyquist orders "wide scale" racial busing.

The commissioner has moved cautiously, however, since the Supreme Court threw out the state's "anti - busing" law last summer. He ordered the Utica plan after a local complaint, and has renewed a long-delayed order for Mount Vernon. Then, he resurrected the Buffalo case after finding segregation had worsened since former Commissioner James E. Allen Jr. ordered an integration plan in 1965.

More House votes needed for anti-busing amendment. Story on Page 14.

Wherever he turns now, Nyquist could find a wide range of areas where enrollments do not meet the standard he set for Utica: That each school not vary more than five per cent from the district average of minority pupils.

In Utica, the average is 13 per cent, but school percentages in 1970-71 varied from no blacks at the Albany, Washington and Jones schools to 73 per cent at Potter.

The situation elsewhere, according to 1970-71 figures sent to the department (and therefore possibly different this year) was:

Albany: 14 per cent black. But apparently 15 to 17 elementary and six of seven secondary schools outside the "five per cent" guideline.

Buffalo: 39 per cent black, but 90 of 95 schools apparently outside guidelines; elementary ranges from zero to 100 per cent black; secondary schools vary from 9 per cent black at South Park High to 99 per cent at Woodlawn and Clinton junior highs.

Rochester: 33 per cent black; now busing some students to suburbs in voluntary plan; in 1970-71, though, 48 of 56 schools apparently did not meet guidelines. High schools ranged from 7 per cent black at Jefferson to 80 per cent at Madison.

Syracuse: 24 per cent black; 37 of 45 schools apparently outside guidelines; blacks range from one per cent at Lincoln Elementary to 58 per cent at Roosevelt High.

Yonkers: 14 per cent black, 38 of 42 schools apparently outside guidelines; blacks range from none at Mark Twain Junior High School to 73 per cent at School No. 6.

New York City: 35 per cent black, 26 per cent Spanish-surnamed. Without considering individual schools, the 31 community districts range from 9 to 85 per cent black in elementary and intermediate schools; high schools ranged from two to 86 per cent.

Lackawanna: 16 per cent black; range from .1 per cent at Hoover Junior High to 61 per cent at Lincoln Junior High.

Binghamton: four per cent black; range from .8 per cent at Jefferson Elementary to 29 per cent at Christopher Columbus.

Jamestown: 2.4 per cent black; range from no blacks at Ring, Persell and Fletcher schools to 10 per cent at Euclid Avenue.

Middletown: 7.4 per cent black; range from 3.6 per cent at Albert St. School to 17.5 per cent at Academy Avenue.

Newburgh: 24 per cent black; ranges from 4.6 per cent at Valis Gate School to 96 per cent at Montgomery Street.

Poughkeepsie: 34 per cent black; ranges up to 55 per cent at Morse School.

Rome: four per cent black; ranges from zero at Stokes and Westernville schools to 12 per cent at Columbus.

Mount Vernon: 56 per cent black; ranges from 11 to 98 per cent.

Troy: 12 per cent black; ranges from .6 at School No. 18 to 48 per cent at School No. 5.

Schenectady: eight per cent black; ranges from zero at Howe School to 38 per cent at Horace Mann.

'BLOODY SUNDAY' PROTEST MARCH — Line of predominantly Roman Catholic marchers proceeds down Camlough Road early Sunday at start of march and rally to protest "Bloody Sunday" occurrences in Londonderry. Marchers wear white coffin-shaped tags with numeral "13"

Disruption Day Set Wednesday In N. Ireland

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—Roman Catholic civil rights leaders today proclaimed Wednesday a "day of disruption" throughout Northern Ireland despite a police crackdown on leaders of Sunday's mammoth protest march by 20,000 persons in Newry.

Police in Belfast said 26 persons, including some members of the British and Northern Ireland Parliaments, will be prosecuted for taking part in Sunday's illegal civil rights march in Newry, the biggest in Northern Ireland history.

"The summonses are in the course of being served," a police spokesman said. "Some of the summonses are against MPs and prominent members of the civil rights movement."

Police said the alleged offenders were being ordered to appear in Newry court Feb. 16. Conviction of violating the government ban on parades carries a mandatory six-month prison sentence although magistrates can suspend sentence if there are extenuating circumstances.

Wednesday is the six-month anniversary of the British government's decision to intern terrorist suspects without trial. A spokesman for the Northern Ireland Civil Rights Association said a province-wide sitdown demonstration was planned this week "to dislocate the functioning of the state and bring Northern Ireland to a standstill."

The government has about 750 persons in detention camps as suspected members of the Irish Republican Army (IRA). The IRA has been trying to forcibly unite Northern Ireland with the mostly Roman Catholic Irish Republic to the south.

The nearly three years of strife in Northern Ireland results in part from the contention of the Roman Catholic minority that the Protestant-dominated government discriminates against Catholics, particularly in jobs, housing and voting.

The organizers of Sunday's march of 20,000 Irish demonstrators said another civil rights march would be held next weekend in Enniskillen, about 10 miles from the border with the Irish Republic in County Fermanagh.

Sunday's demonstration, called in defiance of a government ban on parades, protested the Jan. 30 killing by British troops of 13 civilians in Londonderry. Each of the marchers wore a small, black-bordered cardboard badge cut in the shape of a coffin and bearing the number 13.

Led by a phalanx that included Bernadette Devlin, a member of British Parliament, the marchers walked about a mile of the planned 1½ mile route when they came upon the first of the steel and barbed wire barriers erected by British troops.

The organizers turned the snake-like column of silent marchers—some carrying placards reading "British Pigs Out"—back to its assembly point in the Catholic Derrybeg Housing Estate.

U.S. Refused Straight Swap, Hanoi Negotiator Claims

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hanoi's chief negotiator at the Paris peace talks says the United States was offered a swap last year but President Nixon refused.

Minister Xuan Thuy added, however, that such an exchange can no longer be discussed without linking it to the future of South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu.

Thuy was asked in an interview in Paris with CBS' "face the Nation": "Will you agree to a simple swap of American troops out for American prisoners back?"

He replied: "It is not a swap here.... You should remember that this approach was advanced in 1971.... It was our earnest desire to see Mr. Nixon rapidly settle the Vietnam problem peacefully.

"That is to say... to withdraw U.S. forces and to change the... Thieu administration. Through the election of Oct. 3, 1971, it was a very opportune occasion to do so, and it would have allowed Mr. Nixon to get out of the war very honorably. But Mr. Nixon refused to do that."

Asked specifically whether the Hanoi position now requires handling of the political and military problems as a single question, Thuy replied: "As I said, the two crucial points, the two key points, should be settled, and the settlement of these two points will facilitate the settlement of the other points."

CBS followed the Thuy interview, taped Friday, with live questioning of Secretary of State William P. Rogers in Washington Sunday.

Asked whether Thuy had ever offered a prisoner-for-pullout trade, Rogers replied:

"There was never any discussion of that kind. In every session that we had with the North Vietnamese, they made it clear that they would not talk about a military solution, except in the context of an over-all political solution....

"So it is not possible for us to work out any military solution unless we, in effect, give them exactly what they want. And that would mean a total defeat for the United States...." Rogers said.

Despite a stream of criticism from North Vietnam and the Viet Cong, Rogers said, the Communists still have not rejected Nixon's latest eight-point peace plan.

Meanwhile, on the war front, the Viet Cong fired 122mm rockets into the Central Highlands town of Kontum today in the first shelling of the provincial capital since the current Communist buildup for what allied intelligence had said will be an offensive.

Along the Central Coast militiamen claimed to have killed the Viet Cong "chief" of troubled Binh Dinh Province, military spokesmen said.

The chief was identified from papers found on his body and spokesmen were unable to supply his name or personal background.

Two rockets exploded near the province headquarters, killing one Vietnamese and wounding three others, field reports said.

Kontum, a town of 30,000 population 260 miles north of Saigon, has been widely mentioned by allied officers as the most likely point to be attacked in any guerrilla offensive, expected to be timed with President Nixon's Feb. 21 visit to Peking.

Besides Kontum, the guerrillas shelled a hamlet near Chuong Nghia, 25 miles north of Kontum then attacked the militia outpost defending it.

One South Vietnamese soldier was wounded and two Viet Cong were killed, military sources said.

Two Stolen Chalicees Recovered

Burglaries Under Probe

By WALTER S. CLARK

KINGSTON — A rash of weekend burglaries in this city and in Northern Dutchess County, including the theft of two chalices from St. Joseph's Church here, were under investigation today by authorities. Rhinebeck troopers made two arrests.

The chalices valued between $800 and $900 were later recovered by an off-duty detective, police said.

The Rev. Alfred Pizzuto notified police at 7:45 a.m.

Saturday that the chalices were missing from the church. The stolen items belonged to Father Pizzuto and The Rt. Rev. Msgr. J. J. O'Reilly.

Detective Albert Hutton reportedly went to the church for religious purposes shortly before 5 p.m. and on his way home he spotted the chalices in front of the Fair Street Reformed Church, where they apparently had been left by the thief.

An offering container that had been removed from in front of the altar was found by a church janitor near the garage in the rear of the church.

Meanwhile, Rhinebeck State Police reported an intensive investigation on Sunday of a burglary at the Wagon Wheel Restaurant on Route 9 at Hyde Park resulted in the arrest of two youths on charges of burglary third degree.

Troopers identified the defendants as Richard Charles Simpson, 19, and Donald Richard Decker, 18, both of Hyde Park. The two were arraigned before Town Justice Eugene Simpson. They pleaded innocent and were committed to the Dutchess County jail in lieu of $2,000 bail pending grand jury action, police said.

William Leroy, proprietor of the restaurant discovered the burglary at 1:45 p.m. and notified State Police. Investigators D. W. Harrison and J. J. Horkan, with Trooper T. L. Grant investigated. At 5:40 p.m. Harrison and Horkan took Simpson and Decker in custody. It was reported money taken from a juke box, cigarette machine and other equipment had been recovered.

Detectives also investigated an overnight burglary at Madden's Radio and Television salesroom at 344 Broadway, Kingston. The break-in was discovered and reported this morning.

Investigation disclosed two color and one black and white television sets had been stolen. The TV's were valued at $695, according to police who reported entry to the store was gained by smashing glass from a front door of the establishment.

An inventory was being taken to determine whether any other merchandise was taken. Police also reported a four-speed transmission had been taken from the loading platform of the All-American Trans-mission building at 105 Cornell Street, in Kingston. Detectives reported the transmission was worth in the neighborhood of $400. The theft was reported at 4:30 p.m. on Friday.

Snow, Icy Conditions Force School Closings

By JEAN F. DOLAN

KINGSTON — The groundhog's shadowy promise of six more weeks of winter weather came true over the weekend with a snow and cold combination which closed all schools in Ulster County and made driving hazardous throughout the state.

A total of one and a half inches of snow accumulated in the City of Kingston where crews were out all Sunday night and into this morning salting and sanding streets. Caution is still the key word for motorists and pedestrian alike.

All roads in the county are "passable", but there too caution is advised. Ulster County Highway crews continued plowing and sanding operations through the day. Heaviest accumulations were in the southern section of the county.

Two inches of new snow fell at Belleayre Ski Center where conditions were reported "excellent" today under partly cloudy skies and 12 degree temperatures. Nelson Sears of the state operated center said that Belleayre had a "big weekend" after an almost snowless winter to date.

New York State Thruway reported snow from New York City to Rochester, with clear skies and icy spots from Rochester to the Pennsylvania State line.

The Mid-Hudson region fared relatively well in the return of winter. Elsewhere in the state heavy snowfall isolated upstate communities of Oswego and Fulton and caused a snow emergency in New York City.

In the Oswego area 40 inches of snow has fallen in four days. More than 200 travelers stranded in the village of Parish Sunday night were given lodging in the firehouse. The storm also left more than 3,700 of the All-American Trans-mission building at 105 Cornell Street, in Kingston. Detectives reported the transmission was worth in the neighborhood of $400. The theft was reported at 4:30 p.m. on Friday.

Lloyd Man Dies in Trailer Fire

HIGHLAND

An elderly Town of Lloyd man perished early Sunday when fire swept through his trailer home on Route 44-55, in this community.

Other fires in the county over the weekend left a Connelly family homeless and destroyed a two-story unoccupied frame house in Kerhonkson.

Near zero temperatures hampered firefighters at the scene of the fires, authorities said.

Highland State Police identified the victim of the fire as William Mayans, about 85, who lived alone in the trailer. Troopers said the trailer had no electricity. It was heated with kerosene stoves and kerosene lamps were used. It was theorized that the blaze probably originated from a faulty heating unit. The trailer was located near the Rockinghorse Ranch, the scene of several major fires in the last year.

Highland firemen responded to an alarm at about 5:30 a.m. and on arrival at the scene volunteers found the structure engulfed in flames. The body of the man was recovered after the blaze was quelled.

Ulster County Coroner Richard Buono of Saugerties investigated with BCI Investigator Roger D. Gardner and Troopers Girard G. Henne and George J. Hzelett. The body of the elderly man was taken to the county morgue at Kingston Hospital for examination. A verdict is pending.

The trailer home was completely gutted.

A fire at the home of the Edward Banks family in Connelly on Sunday made the residence unlivable. Firemen from Port Ewen assisted the Esopus Fire company stouby in local units at the scene and the event of another fire in the district.

Neighbors and friends launched a drive for household furnishings and clothes for the family of five, made homeless by the blaze.

Meanwhile Kerhonkson Fire Chief Martin Somers reported fire destroyed a two-story frame house at Turkey Hill in that community early Sunday. ummers said State Police BCI officers are investigating the origin of the blaze.

Chief Somers said Kerhonkson units responded to an alarm at 5 a.m. after fire was discovered in the house owned by David Irwin of that community.

On arrival firemen found flames sweeping through rooms of the lower and upper floors. Through mutual aid arrangements, firemen from Wawarsing and Napanoch were dispatched to the scene to assist. Water was shuttled by truck from a hydrant a considerable distance from the burning building, officials said.

Accord fire company was called in to cover up at the Kerhonkson fire station until other units reported back in service shortly before 8:30 a.m.

The cause of the fire was not determined. Turkey Hill is situated just south of Kerhonkson.

$974,632 City Hall Nearly Completed

KINGSTON The new city hall in Broadway East is "substantially completed," according to Robert Milliken, spokesman for Albert E. Milliken, architectural firm, assuming the entire $50,000 bond issue approved by the Common Council for furnishings last week, will come to $974,632.

The term "substantially completed," according to Milliken, means the building is completed to the point where the owner (the city) can occupy it without any undue inconvenience.

The Building and Supplies Committee of the Common Council is still working on furnishing for the building, according to its chairman, Emilio A. Primo (D-Eighth Ward). The city is expected to buy the furnishings through state contract with delivery expected some six to eight weeks after the order.

The general contractor for the building was G.H. Swart of Kingston who bid $594,326 in April of 1970. There were two change orders, one for $534,88 and another for $1,877.49, bringing the total cost for general construction to $596,738.

Swart has been paid $549,870 to date with the balance of $44,990 held in abeyance. Under the terms of the contract, ten per cent of the bid price of the contracts was held until 50 per cent of the work was completed. Final payment will be made upon the acceptance of the building by the city.

R.J. Welsh of Saugerties, bid $41,000 on the plumbing with one change added for $250. The firm has been paid $39,176 with a balance remaining of $2,074.

Bank Brothers of Accord had the heating and ventilating contract with a low bid of $70,100 to which $300 was added in a change order. Bank Brothers has been paid $66,595, leaving a balance of $3,805.

Timmons Electric of Kingston had the low bid on electrical work at $127,868 with an addition of $255. Payment of $119,030 has been made leaving a balance of $9,363.

John V. Warren of Rensselaer had the contract on sprinklers at $13,665. There were no change orders. Warren has been paid $10,931 with a balance of $2,733 to be paid.

Architectural fees came to $35,156 of which $43,950 has been paid. The city will be receiving an additional bill from the architect for $2,564 to cover the cost of reproducing plans for the bidders, an expense borne by the owner.

The city paid the Urban Renewal agency $23,900 for land.

City Liberals 'Shocked' Over Norton's Removal

KINGSTON The City of Kingston Liberal Party was "shocked" by the removal of Alderman Edward M. Norton (D-11th Ward) as majority leader of the Common Council, Ronald F. Woods, Liberal vice chairman, told The Freeman today.

Norton lost a 6-3 election to Alderman Peter J. Mancuso (D-12th Ward) on Dec. 19. Asked why the Liberals waited six weeks to air their views on the election, Woods replied,

"We had to get together with the executive committee (of the Liberal Party) to decide whether to get directly involved or not."

Woods also noted that the election took place shortly before the Christmas holidays which precluded action for several weeks.

The Liberals campaigned heavily for Norton in that contest and Woods indicated that there may be political repercussions due to Norton's defeat.

"Some of the Liberals probably won't support those aldermen who voted against Norton," Woods said. Those voting against Norton, who had Liberal endorsement, included John F. Coffey (First Ward), Joseph R. McGrane (Second Ward), Clarence Stoutenburg (Fourth Ward), Donald E. Quick (Sixth Ward) and Clifford G. Sinsbaugh (10th Ward).

Mancuso, the man who defeated Norton, was the only Democratic alderman who received the endorsement of the Conservative Party. The Liberals, according to Woods, "are very unhappy that the only Conservative in the majority was elected its leader."

Woods, in a statement today, stated that "Alderman Norton's contributions to the city as majority leader should not pass unnoticed and the Liberal Party publicly thanks him for a job well done."

Continuing his statement, Woods said, "Alderman Norton came to the Common Council in 1964 and after only four short years was elected majority leader. For four terms Norton served in a dedicated manner to the Common Council membership and to all Kingstonians. The duties he conscientiously carried out and the contributions he made are many and a few of these include:

"1. The re-opening of the Cornell Fire Station, the new recreation complex in Block Park and the demolition of old dwellings in his ward.

"2. Pioneered the struggle for the Rondout Recreation Center.

"3. Served for four years as chairman of the Finance Committee and four years as chairman of the Laws and Rules Committee.

"4. Reactivated the city hall issue in the Common Council.

"5. Led the fight for new housing for the residents of Kingston. 'I certainly hope the Democrats have extended to him their sincere thanks and that Alderman Norton will continue to do an excellent job for all 11th Warders and Kingstonians,' Woods concluded.

One of the unknowns, he said, was why the bacon in which FDA scientists found from 30 to 106 parts per billion of the chemicals did not show any of them before being cooked.

Besides the cooked bacon, scientists reported finding nitrosamine levels of 11 to 48 parts per billion in the dried beef and cured pork samples, and 5 parts per billion in a ham that had undergone an extensive curing process.

No tolerance level has been determined for consumption of the chemicals by humans. Scientists said that some laboratory animals developed cancer after being given the chemicals. Some animals in the same tests showed no effect, they said.

"We really don't know how these compounds develop and

Llewellyn Thompson Dies,
Was U.S. Ambassador to Russia

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Llewellyn E. Thompson Jr., twice U.S. ambassador to Russia and known for being a shrewd negotiator in sensitive jobs, died Sunday after a long illness. Thompson, 67, succumbed at the National Institutes of Health. The NIH clinic said Thompson was "quite ill" and had been a patient since Jan. 31.

His wife, the former Jane Goelet, was at the hospital when he died, NIH said. Thompson, semi-retired, had been the top Soviet Affairs advisor in the Kennedy and Johnson administrations. He twice served as ambassador to Moscow — from 1957 to 1962, and from 1967 to 1969 — and was holder of a presidential award for distinguished federal civilian service.

Thompson was an ambassador at large from 1962 to 1967, when President Johnson tapped him to return to Moscow as part of a program to seek better relations with the Soviet Union.

The ambassador, who had held several sub-ambassadorial posts in Moscow in the 1940s, said at the time that "having been here for nine years, it feels like returning home."

Born in Las Animas, Colo., "Tommy" Thompson entered the Foreign Service in 1929, a year after he graduated from the University of Colorado. He deferred marriage until the age of 44, when he wed Mrs. Goelet.

Key Figures in Hughes Case Face Grand Jury

NEW YORK (AP) — Key figures in the Howard Hughes-Clifford Irving "autobiography" mystery were scheduled to appear before a federal grand jury beginning today as the panel enters its second week of investigation into the tangled case.

Irving, his Swiss-born wife Edith and Richard Suskind, a researcher who said in a sworn affidavit that he witnessed a meeting between Hughes and Irving, are among those who have been subpoenaed to testify in the probe of possible fraud.

The cast of characters in the drama grew Sunday as Life magazine said a blonde scuba diver, identified as Ann Baxter, flew with Irving to the Virgin Islands last December and gave him scuba lessons while he waited in what he said was an attempt to contact Hughes.

She declined to comment on the case.

Irving, a 41-year-old novelist, said in court papers last month that he flew to St. Croix from Miami last Dec. 10 on instructions of a Hughes aide, who he said told him the reclusive billionaire would meet him for a final session on the "autobiography."

On Saturday, Swiss authorities issued an arrest warrant for Mrs. Irving in connection with possible fraud and forgery charges.

Another beautiful woman, Danish cabaret singer Nina van Pallandt, 38, had denied Irving's statement that a meeting between the author and Hughes occurred last February while Newsweek magazine said it learned that the manuscript that Irving gave McGraw-Hill—a manuscript apparently annotated by Hughes and used by Irving as proof of his contact with the billionaire—may be part of a Danish cabaret singer Nina van Pallandt, 38, had denied Irving's statement that a meeting between the author and Hughes occurred last February while Newsweek magazine said it learned that the manuscript that Irving gave McGraw-Hill—a manuscript apparently annotated by Hughes and used by Irving as proof of his contact with the billionaire—may be part of a Lawyer Group for 'No Fault'

NEW YORK (AP) — The Association of the Bar of the City of New York says it supports a "pure" no-fault automobile insurance plan that would provide "swift and sure compensation" to accident victims "at the lowest possible cost."

Bernard Botein, president of the association, said Sunday the group's executive committee has unanimously endorsed a proposal that would eliminate all negligence suits in auto accident cases. The plan would mandate automatic compensation by each driver's own insurance company.

The unconditional no-fault proposal contrasts with a modified no-fault insurance measure pending before the state legislature.

The modified plan, proposed last week by State Sen. Bernard G. Gordon, a Peekskill Republican, would allow negligence suits when a victim had medical bills totaling more than $5,000 and sought damages for "pain and suffering."

The bar association's "pure" no fault proposal was drawn up by a special committee headed by David W. Peck, former presiding justice of the Appellate Division for the First Department.

"We are convinced," the committee's report said, "that the fault principle must be abolished, that the time taken and resources devoted to investigating and determining fault, dealing with claims and litigating them, are being wasted, and that the costs incurred are out of all proportion to the benefits conferred."

The proposal was approved by 13 of the committee's 16 members. The remaining three wrote dissenting reports.

Botein, speaking for the bar association, commented Sunday on Gordon's modified no-fault bill:

"While it doesn't go quite as far in unreserved no-fault insurance as does our committee's report, it's still a very strong proposal and one that strikes us as being superior to anything proposed in any other state."

The Gordon measure provides for automatic payment of up to $50,000 a person for medical expenses caused by an accident, as well as 80 per cent reimbursement of up to $1,000 a month in lost earnings for as long as three years.

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller who has said some kind of no-fault plan would be one of his "priorities" this year, announced he was "identifying" with the bill.

The American and New York Trial Lawyers Associations have taken strong stands against any form of no-fault insurance, and the American Bar Association has not yet decided its position on the issue.

Israelis Smash Guerrilla Rings; Deny Attack on Mrs. Meir's Home

TEL AVIV (UPI) — Israeli authorities have reported the smashing of two Arab guerrilla networks and denied reports that Palestinian commandos blew up a house belonging to Prime Minister Golda Meir.

Military spokesmen said the two guerrilla bands, totaling 17 members, operated on the occupied west bank of the Jordan River. One was based in Shihur, a small village outside biblical Hebron, the other in Jenin.

The spokesmen said two men from the Shihur group admitted carrying out two grenade attacks in East Jerusalem in October, in which an Arab girl was killed and 19 civilians were wounded, 10 of them American tourists.

One of the Jenin group admitted two recent sabotage attacks in settlements outside Tel Aviv in which five Israelis were wounded, spokesmen said.

Military sources Sunday dismissed as "sheer fantasy" Arab guerrilla reports from Damascus that Palestinian commandos had blown up a building belonging to Mrs. Meir in Haifa, Israel's largest seaport.

The military said Mrs. Meir owned no property in Haifa and that the guerrillas apparently claimed credit for a blaze that gutted a Haifa government office.

The Damascus communique also said guerrillas touched off explosives in a downtown Tel Aviv building, destroying the interior, and in a restaurant in nearby Holon. Military sources said the restaurant was destroyed but called it an underworld feud. There were no casualties in either incident.

In another clash Saturday, Israeli soldiers and border police shot and killed an Arab guerrilla who had hurled grenades at them in a suburb of Gaza town. The Israelis suffered no casualties, spokesmen said.

Vet Never Heard Of a 'Gay' Jaguar

By ABIGAIL Van Buren
(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: Do you know anything about jaguars? We just got one for a pet and he is a very lovable cat. We wanted to mate him, so we borrowed a female jaguar for that purpose. We put them together and he wouldn't have a thing to do with her. She didn't seem to have any interest in him, either, but I think if he had romanced her a little, she might have cooperated.

My wife says she thinks our cat is homosexual. Abby, have you ever heard of a gay cat? I asked our vet, and he just laughed. I'd really like to know.

SERIOUS IN FLORIDA

DEAR SERIOUS: I asked one of the finest vets in the profession, (Dr. Herman Salk of Palm Springs, Cal.) and he didn't laugh. Instead he told me that unless the female is "in heat," the male will have nothing to do with her. And she could also care less about him. Also, some cats refuse to breed in captivity. And Dr. Salk concluded by saying that he had never heard of a four-legged gay cat.

DEAR ABBY: In a recent column you printed a letter from a California clergyman suggesting that marriages not licensed by the State might be performed to save consciences in cases where a divorce was not possible, or where a licensed marriage would lose certain benefits to the persons.

I think you ought to suggest that people find out the legal ramifications both for their clergyman and for themselves before attempting such action.

In the Commonwealth of Virginia, a clergyman posts $500 bond that he will perform no marriages not recognized by the State. Similar provisions exist in the three other States in which I have served my ministry. I write this in order that people's expectations not be raised about things which cannot be done.

A VIRGINIA CLERGYMAN
DEAR CLERGYMAN: I appreciate your writing. In all matters having to do with "the law," since the laws differ from state to state, as a matter of policy, a lawyer, or the local Legal Aid Society, should always be consulted.

DEAR ABBY: Whoever said that all the telephone chief operators are MALES is wrong! At least in Pennsylvania, you are.

I am a telephone operator for Bell of Pennsylvania, and all the chief operators I know are WOMEN.

I wish the chief operators WERE men because I would rather work for a man than a woman. Also, I'll bet no man would take the foul language we women operators take from the customers.

FEMALE
DEAR FEMALE: Interesting that a woman would rather have a man for her boss. Also, what can a man do about "foul language" from the customers that a woman can't do?

Winner of Artist Competition To Perform With Philharmonic

Violinist Gerado Ribeiro, of Valbom, Portugal, will be guest soloist with the Hudson Valley Philharmonic in the Artist Series to be held on Saturday, Feb. 12 at Mt. Saint

Mary, Newburgh; Sunday the 13th at the Poughkeepsie High School and Monday the 14th at Kingston High School. Winner of the Fifth Annual Young Artists Competition sponsored by the Friends of the Philharmonic last April, he competed with 27 artists for the prize of $700 and a chance to perform with the Philharmonic.

Ribeiro, who is still a student at the Juilliard School of Music and principally active in chamber groups, also won the Feldman Memorial Competition held in Philadelphia and an appearance with the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra. Other appearances include The Oporto Symphony Orchestra in Portugal, the Lucerne Symphony in Switzerland and three concerts at Carnegie Hall.

Philadelphia's Evening Bulletin said of the 21 year old violinist: "Ribeiro's work was spirited and faultless . . . he dug in at once, making his solo work strong and commanding. Last night we heard a major talent who will be heard from again on a large scale."

He will play the Concerto No. 1 for violin by Paganini. Also in the program is Mozart's Overture to the Magic Flute and the Symphony No. 1 in D Major by Mahler. Edward Simons, concert-master and assistant conductor will conduct for the performance. For tickets and information write the Hudson Valley Philharmonic, in care of Box 116, Mountaintop, N. 'Host Families' Are Needed in Kingston Area

Kingston area families are needed to entertain English-speaking European teachers in their homes for one or for two weeks this summer. It was announced by The American Host Program today.

According to Stuart Perkins, Board Chairman of the Host Program, who is President of Volkswagen of America, American Host is one of the few non-governmental programs designed to show the American way of life to foreign teachers by arranging hospitality with American families for them. Now in its tenth year of operation, American Host has opened doors to understanding for more than 2,500 European teachers who have passed on their new view of America to their students.

Perkins said that being a "Host Family" is open to anyone who has the desire to increase understanding and friendship between Americans and Europeans. All American Host asks for is hospitality—a private room for a guest and free time for one or for two weeks to introduce the guest to friends and neighbors and perhaps to fellow teachers.

American Host arranges all transportation. Host Families are asked to meet their guest upon arrival in their community. Teachers and Host Families have an opportunity to correspond for at least a month before meeting. Arrangements for participating as a Host Family can be made through:

Tom Murphy, director, The American Host Program, Hotel Commodore, Suite 2100, Park Avenue at 42 Street, New York, N. Y. 10017. Deadline for information is March 10.

Ted in the Spotlight

Don't look now, Edmund, Hubert, Eugene, George, Henry, Wilbur and all the rest but those footsteps you hear echoing behind you belong to just the man you think they belong to.

Because if it's true that Edward M. "Ted" Kennedy, the youthful senator from Massachusetts, is not a candidate for the Democratic nomination for President of the United States, how come he's going to get a bodyguard along with all the declared presidential hopefuls?

Senator Kennedy has reiterated many times his disinterest in the highest elective position in the land. To prove he is not a candidate, he has ordered his name withdrawn from presidential primaries. He has withdrawn as a delegate to his party's national convention in Miami this July.

But one thing he has not withdrawn from is the "chicken-and-pea" circuit. For a non-candidate he sure is making a lot of speeches. When he's not busy telling Great Britain to withdraw its troops from Ireland, he's grabbing headlines with attacks on the administration.

So, standing as he does almost constantly in the glare of the political spotlight, it's little wonder that he has been voted around-the-clock Secret Service protection beginning March 20. A bipartisan congressional committee says it determined the individuals entitled to protection, based on a formula involving the Gallup and Harris polls.

Which leads us to an interesting bit

NEW DELINQUENCY ROLE — The Justice Department, once restricted to the prosecution of delinquents, has assumed the added responsibility for prevention of youthful crimes and youthful rehabilitation. With 50 per cent of all crimes committed by persons under 18, attention should be focused on youthful offenders.

BOOM IN AMERICANA — A pair of sugar tongs 4½ inches long, engraved with the crest of George Washington, were purchased at auction for $3,750 by the Mount Vernon Association for the Mount Vernon collection. They were among a series of sales of Americana, in one week at the Parke-Bernet galleries, New York, that brought a total of $517,490.

of creative writing in the New York Times the other day under the byline of Arthur Krock, the paper's former Washington correspondent.

The venerable Mr. Krock looked into his crystal ball and emerged with two fantasies ostensibly written from the Democratic convention at Miami Beach. The first was dated July 12, 1972. The second, July 13, 1972.

The first described the unroarious demonstration that accompanied an invitation to the "senior senator from Massachusetts to address the convention." The delegates shouted, the musicians played and even Howard K. Smith got excited.

As the turbulence subsided, the senior senator excoriated the Republican administration, citing the public debt, the war deaths, the brutality in Pakistan, the mistreatment of the poor and the elderly Americans, the favors to the rich, and so on—far into the night.

And, continued Reporter Krock in his whimsical July 13 story, the next day the convention in its first true draft since Adlai Stevenson, nominated Mr. Kennedy even while he was—quote—urging the convention to choose another among the great Democratic candidates who are ready to carry your proud ensign—unquote.

This is February.

The scene that Mr. Krock contemplates won't emerge from the shadows for more than five months.

Don't make too big a wager that Mr. Krock is wrong.

LEND-LEASE REVIVED — Before our entry into World War II and during participation, lend-lease was a way of arming friends and allies. Its revival to deliver eight war ships to Indonesia — two minesweepers and eight auxiliary ships—recognizes Indonesia's importance in the Pacific and its near bankruptcy through the late Sukarno era.

SUGAR HICCUP CURE — Three physicians report in the New England Journal of Medicine that one teaspoon of ordinary white granulated sugar had stopped hiccups. The cure was tested in 20 patients who had suffered from a short time to six weeks. Sugar triggers a nerve or glandular reaction.

BERRY'S WORLD

'In this kinda weather, there's nothin' like havin' a maxi. Right, buddy?'

WASHINGTON — Conservatives have been catering wailing over President Nixon's pending Peking trip, deficit spending and economic controls. But there has been a strange silence from their spokesman in Sacramento.

Governor Ronald Reagan, the voice of conservatism in the West, has uttered only one complaint about Nixon in recent months. He rapped the President's welfare program, then hastened to qualify his criticism with the comment that Nixon himself didn't favor it any longer.

There is good reason for Reagan's remarkable restraint. He has been paid off. And ironically, this arch foe of public spending has been paid off with public funds.

Our investigation shows that Nixon has pumped nearly $600 million from the federal till into California in the past 18 months. Much of this has been in the form of straight handouts buried in a bog of bureaucratic gobbledygook.

The flow of boodle has become so great, in fact, that

White House insiders irreverently refer to it as "California Voter Relief."

Last summer, for example, the Administration pushed a $1 billion "emergency employment assistance" appropriations through Congress.

This federal slush fund is doled out directly to state, county and city officials, who can use it to hire almost anyone they wish for almost any job they wish.

To squeeze the money out of Congress, Nixon put in a call to House Appropriations Chairman George Mahon, a tough Texas Democrat who nevertheless has a tendency to wilt in the presence of Presidents.

The "scientific formula" for allocating the emergency funds is a mystery. The results, however, are perfectly clear: California received $184 million, well over twice as much as any other state.

Reagan Sweetener
Again, Nixon took advantage of the congressional confusion, which always develops before a recess, to camouflage another Reagan sweetener last December. As part of a supplemental budget, he sought $5 million for "forest protection and utilization."

This proposed supplemental request, "went the President's pitch, "would provide funds to be used to reduce the buildup of high hazard fuel materials in critical fire areas of the West."

The "West," it turns out, means California. "High hazard fuel materials," refers to brush. This will be "reduced" — or cut down — by several thousand Californians whose government paychecks will make them happier voters in November.

On top of the straight handouts, Nixon has funneled an additional millions into Reagan country in the form of loans and subsidies to private enterprises.

The $250 million federal loan guarantee to Lockheed, for example, is essentially employment insurance for California workers. Lockheed is a California-based company, and nearly 60 per cent of its total operations are located in the state.

Then there's $202.7 million in shipbuilding contracts, which Nixon has arranged for California firms during the past 18 months. Some $90 million of this kitty is in the form of outright federal subsidies.

He personally flew to San Diego to announce the latest ship building deal. On the same day, the Pentagon kicked in another $66 million in contracts for California shipyards.

The cornucopian flow of public funds to Reagan, furthermore, has yet to run its course. Insiders working on the anti-poverty program — a favorite Reagan whipping boy — tell us the Nixon Administration is in the process of setting up a few pilot "showcase projects" to be located — where else? — in California.

If Richard Nixon doesn't carry California in November, it won't be for lack of federal gravy.

Vietnam Withdrawal

President Nixon was prepared last summer to set August 1972 as the deadline for the total withdrawal of U.S. forces from Vietnam.

The secret peace negotiations between Henry Kissinger and Le Duc Tho were going so smoothly last July that a White House insider cracked: "The only question now is who will get the Nobel Peace Prize — Le Duc Tho or Richard Nixon."

But the talks broke down, without any explanation from Hanoi, before the President could set his intended withdrawal date.

He confided to Republican congressional leaders what he had planned to do. "I would have set August 1972 as the date for the withdrawal of all our forces from Vietnam," he said, "if they (the North Vietnamese) had accepted our July proposal."

The President added that "Hanoi can still set the date any time it wants." He was willing to declare an immediate cease-fire or "to work out the cease-fire and POW release on a phase basis." He suggested that political and military agreements could be separated.

But he told the leaders tersely that "we have gone just as far as we can."

Secretary of State Bill Rogers, who also attended the secret briefing for Republican leaders, broke in. "Anyone advocating that we go further than this would be advocating surrender. It is just as simple as that."

Senate GOP leader Hugh Scott asked whether the contemplated withdrawal would be "total, lock, stock and barrel."

Rogers gave a categorical "Yes." All American forces would be pulled out of South Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos. Bases in Thailand, which supported operations in Indochina, would also be shut down. However, he said the United States still has in mind using Thai bases for other purposes.

House GOP leader Gerald Ford asked Kissinger whether Le Duc Tho, during the secret negotiations, "had demanded the overthrow of the Saigon government."

Kissinger also answered "Yes" categorically. He said Hanoi had sought either the "direct overthrow" of the Saigon government or the "indirect overthrow" by insisting upon the complete withdrawal of all U.S. military assistance.

FOOTNOTE: Kissinger told the GOP leaders, incidentally, that Hanoi had been advised the President would divulge the secret negotiations earlier the same day that he delivered his TV report.

Domestic Issues Key

WASHINGTON — The United States has a voting population of 140 million people aged 18 and above, and of these between 85 and 90 million will vote in this year's election.

This is the estimate made by Richard Scammon, former director of the census bureau who is at present director of the Elections Research Center which conducts numerous studies in the public-opinion field. In a speech a few days ago, he dealt with the statistics of the coming election. He said that of the people likely to vote a slight majority are women, 90 per cent are white and 8 or 9 per cent are black, with 1 or 2 per cent Asiatics, American Indians and other races.

Of the voting-age population 50 million are over 50, and 25 million are under 25. The average age of the actual voter in 1972 will be 44 or 45, according to Mr. Scammon. This is a significant piece of information, because many people have assumed that the bulk of the voters are in the younger years.

Mr. Scammon's surveys indicate that domestic issues will be the ones that count in the current campaign. He says these are:

1. Economic — wages, inflation, jobs. If the economy is doing well, Richard Nixon will be re-elected. If not, he will be defeated.

2. The social issue — this involves riots, crime, narcotics, a host of things. Republicans and Democrats have come to a stand-off here—neither party is clearly the winner or loser on the social issue. There has been a diminution of student unrest, drugs and narcotics. School busing and what may be called "scatter housing" in the suburbs (racial) may be the sleeper issue of 1972. It could help Nixon. It is a disruptive and abrasive issue.

3. Personal-Charisma issue — None of the aspirants for the Presidency has grabbed public attention like some of the candidates in preceding elections. Under such circumstances, party loyalty and identification of voters with a particular party will be of major importance. The mass of the Republican voters are expected to support Nixon, while Muskie is increasing his lead among the Democrats.

On the basis of his surveys, Mr. Scammon believes that Muskie will be the Democratic nominee. He feels that Muskie's statement about not having a Negro on the ticket actually was a plus for the country. If by May Muskie is well in the lead, it is assumed that the Democratic Convention will certainly select him as the nominee. Mr. Scammon looks for a well-contested election this year — maybe not as close as 1960 and 1968, but much closer than the Eisenhower and Johnson landslides.

With respect to the election of Congress, Mr. Scammon makes the prediction that the Democrats will continue to control both houses after 1972 unless there is a "wholesale Republican landslide."

About 11 million voters are in the 18 to 20-year-old group, but, on the basis of past experience, one half or less of them are expected to go to the polls. There hasn't been much change in the "youth vote." Approximately 65 per cent in the 18 to 20-year bracket are registering Democratic. Hitherto, in the 21 to 30-year group, they registered Democratic about 63 per cent. According to one longtime pollster, the younger voters in 1945 were about 7 per cent more Democratic than the rest of the country. They are currently around 6 per cent more Democratic.

On "social issues," nearly 80 per cent of the white people and almost 50 per cent of the black people are opposed to busing of school children. The working-class family is primarily affected, and they cannot afford to send their children to private schools. This is a big issue in many parts of the country. If Muskie came out for forced integration of schools or housing, he would, for instance, have a hard time holding the Polish-American vote in Michigan. In other words, the situation varies in many parts of the United States and the candidates will have their difficulties making general statements on such issues as busing.

House GOP leader Gerald Ford asked Kissinger whether Le Duc Tho, during the secret negotiations, "had demanded the overthrow of the Saigon government."

never had it. His sneakers flapped like the beaks of gulls.

There was conviviality. There was trust, friendship, and recollections of bright days long gone. Fahey, the fat one, sometimes poured out a pure waterfall of song about some broad called Mother Macree.

Ryan's Hotel aged in the sun. It died a little each year and some of the Ryans went with it. Fewer and fewer penitents sat waiting for 6 a.m. And then it died permanently when the Commodore got drunk and beat up his old lady.

They took him to court and Sweeney sat as judge and listened gravely to the charges. The Commodore and Sweeney were good friends. The day was June First and the judge said: "Commodore, I'm going to send you to Freehold jail for 60 days." He said it with sorrow. The Commodore appeared to be stunned. Tears came, and he blubbered: "I hope you realize you're spoiling my whole damn summer." . . .

The Joys of Summer Sotting

The sunlight came hard and hot off the tops of lazy foaming waves and brightened the flaking paint on Ryan's Hotel. For the drunks, the time was always 6 a.m. On the far side of the hotel, where the white metal tables polka-dotted the sidewalk, the shakers sat waiting.

They numbered about eight men, each in the throes of dying, each sitting at his own wake. Last night had been a monument to laughter and good-fellowship and love, and Ryan's rang with roistering. But the late-night hours had brought unconsciousness, which stole the joy and the memory of what everyone laughed about.

The mourners did not speak. Since the first pink and pale green bands had raced like a fan over the sea, they had been sitting, waiting for the bartender. He was a Hungarian named Joe, a humorless man with plastered black hair and a face like Zapata.

Joe despised the mourners.

Years before he had switched from booze to a concoction which puts a pink overcoat on ulcers. Once he had been the midnight flirt; now he passed the collection plate in church. Old man Ryan ordered Joe to open that seaside bar at six every morning and, if a customer had the shorts, to put him on the pad for three drinks.

Joe enjoyed arriving at 6:05 with a key in his hand because he knew the imminence of death could not endure the extra five minutes. At the tables, heads began to rattle at 5:59 a.m. and fingers could neither hold nor light cigarettes. No one complained. When he walked across from the bus stop at Harry's Lobster House, he saw the sagging faces of basset hounds with bleeding eyes.

To each he nodded curtly, said "Morning," and fumbled with his key. There was Krosky, who was tossed out of his home once a week and never remembered anything beyond 8 p.m. And Gannon of the molasses skin, a bald silent drinker who would be smashed in an hour, innocently taking a bath in the rough sea holding a bar of yellow soap. And the Commodore, who had once served a hitch in the Navy and now, in age, had two-toned hair and an amiable affinity for remaining drunk in perpetuity. Two were tourists trying to taper off.

They tried not to watch Joe open the door and put the night light out. He walked between the piano with the decayed teeth and the jukebox, up two steps, behind the bar, depressed a cash register key, and glanced at petty cash. Then, casually, slowly as true mourners must, the eight would arise from the tables leaning on their fists, and walk inside as though a drink was the last thing in the world on their minds.

Each took a chair at the bar. Faint smiles warmed the winter of the faces. Joe dug for bottles of Scotch, rye, Canadian and gin and set them on top with a brace of large glasses. "Help yourself," he said simply, "and tell me later what you drank."

No one reached. Each man looked at his pallbearers waiting for someone to start the Mass. The Commodore took a bottle of anything and tried to join it to the glass. The hands did a music-less cha-cha. Other men began to pour. When the drinks were standing like sentinels, no one touched them. All the birds began to chirp a song.

Someone looked vacantly at the back bar. Others recalled something funny — rather, it seemed funny last night. A few said it was a nice warm day. The presence of the elixir of life was all that was required. Joe added up last night's take three times and got three quotients. "Shh," he said.

No one shushed. The place was dark and cool and the air was muffled with old beer. One by one, slowly, each man bent his head to the little drink in the big glass. Each sip induced expressions of disgust and disaste. Soon there was a second round. And a third. Joe began to ask for money. The Commodore

U.S. Hockey Team Upsets Favored Czechs

ANOTHER SAVE — United States goalie Mike Curran scrambles for the puck as Czechoslovakia's Vladimir Martinec (10) tries for a goal. Frank Sanders (9) comes up to help Curran. The U. S. team, inspired by Curran's spectacular defense work, scored a stunning 5-1 upset in the Olympic hockey tournament in Sapporo, Japan.

By MARTIN LADER
UPI Sports Writer

SAPORO, Japan (UPI) — A young United States team, sparked by the brilliant goaltending of Mike Curran, pulled off the upset of the XI Olympic hockey tournament Monday by stunning heavily favored Czechoslovakia 5-1.

Curran, a veteran of international competition who joined the U.S. club shortly before it departed for Sapporo, was sensational after allowing the lone Czechoslovakian goal at 4:32 of the first period. He turned back 39 shots in the first two periods alone and 51 in all, including a stellar effort on a breakaway by Jiri Holik.

Keith Christiansen of Duluth, Minn., tied the game in the first period when he knocked the puck in after a goalmouth scramble and Kevin Ahearn of Milton, Mass., produced the go-ahead goal at 9:41 of the second period as he converted a pass from Craig Sanner on a two-on-one break.

Sanner, of St. Paul, Minn., boosted the lead to 3-1 three minutes later, deflecting a shot by Jim McElmury and Charlie Sanders gave the U.S. a 4-1 lead with a long slap shot. Ron Naslund of Burnsville, Minn., added the fifth goal in the final period. The U.S. victory, combined with Sweden's 3-3 tie with Russia, a co-favorite along with Czechoslovakia, turned the hockey tournament into a wide open race.

The outstanding individual performance of the day came from Ard Schenk, the Dutch speed skating star, who completed his gold medal triple by winning the grueling 10,000-meter event after earlier taking the 1,500 and 5,000 meter crowns.

Bernhard Russi of Switzerland, the favorite, came through to win the men's downhill ski race. The best U.S. hope for a medal remained in figure skating, where Julie Lynn Holmes of North Hollywood, Calif., trailed Beatrix Schuba of Austria entering the free-skating phase of the competition. Miss Schuba, the finest school figure skater in the world, is not rated highly as a free skater.

Schenk, a 27-year-old physiotherapist, turned in an Olympic record time of 15:01.35 to beat countryman Cees Verkerk, who was more than three seconds behind. Sten Swensen of Norway took third. Schenk, however, was well off his world record of 14:55.90 set at Inzell, Austria, last March.

Schenk thus becomes only the third man in Olympic history to win three gold medals in speed skating competition. The last was Hjalmar Anderson of Norway in 1952.

Russi, the world champion, finished the downhill in one minute, 51.43 seconds to beat teammate Roland Collombin.

"The victory didn't come as a surprise to me," said Russi. "I had been working for this for the last two years. I was in very good condition and I looked at my Swiss teammates as my chief rivals."

Collombin finished in 1:52.07 to nose out Austria's Heinz Messner (1:52.40) for the silver medal.

Sweden roared back with three goals in the final period to pull off its tie with Russia. Bjorn Palmqvist, Inge Hammarstrom and Hakan Wickburg collected the Swedish goals while Valeri Charlamov had two goals and an assist for Russia.

Sven-aake Lundbeck, a 24-year-old in only his first year of international competition, won the 15-kilometer cross-country ski with a time of 45 minutes, 28.24 seconds, beating competition when she won the gold medal in an aggregate time of two minutes, 59.18 seconds. Miss Muller had a final run of 44.32 to beat Ute Ruhrold and Margit Schumann.

Russi, who defeated teammate Roland Collombin in the prestigious downhill with a time of one minute, 51.43 seconds, was not surprised by the victory.

"The victory didn't come as a surprise to me because I had been working for this for the last two years," Russi said. "I was in very good condition and I looked at my Swiss teammates as my rivals."

Collombin's time was 1:52.07 while Austria's Heinz Messner, was third in 1:52.40.

Schenk Is Triple Winner

SAPORO, Japan (UPI) — Ard Schenk of the Netherlands completed his speed skating triple crown Monday when he added a gold medal in the grueling 10,000 meters to his 1,500 and 5,000 meter titles and world champion Bernhard Russi, as expected, won the men's downhill ski event at the XI Winter Olympic Games.

Meanwhile, won an underdog Swedish sextet scored a major upset in hockey by tying heavily favored Russia, 3-3, with all three goals coming in the final period.

America's best hope for a medal appeared to be in the women's figure skating where Julie Lynn Holmes was given a good chance to provide the U.S. with its second medal of the Games.

Schenk, a 27-year old Amsterdam physiotherapist, captured the 10,000 meter event in an Olympic record time of 15:01.35 in besting fellow countryman Cees Verkerk. Verkerk was timed in 15:04.70 while third place finisher Sten Swensen of Norway came in at 15:07.08.

Sweden's Johnny Hoglin, who set the Olympic record of 15:23.60 in Grenoble four years ago, scratched from the competition just prior to the start of Monday's race because of a throat infection.

Schenk's mark did not come close to his world record of 14:55.90 set in Inzell last March.

The 6.2 Schenk, who captured the 5,000 meter event last week and then the 1,500 meters on Sunday, becomes only the third man in Olympic history to score a triple victory. The last to turn the trick was Hjalmar Anderson of Norway in the 1952 Games.

Earlier, Schenk, the reigning world and Olympic champion, took the 1,500 and 5,000 meters.

His achievement Monday made him only the third man in Olympic history to take the triple crown. Ivar Ballangrud of Norway did it in 1936 at Garmisch-Partenkirchen, Germany, while another Norwegian, Hjalmar Anderson, scored on his home track at Oslo in 1952.

Jan Bols of Holland, who clocked 15:17.99 for fourth, and Russian Valeri Lavrouchin, who was fifth in 15:20.08, also broke the Olympic record.

Goran Claesson of Sweden was sixth in 15:30.19.

Schenk, a great favorite with the 40,000 crowd at the Makomanai oval, came out for a lap of honor for the first time in four days. He earned a standing ovation.

Russi, who defeated teammate Roland Collombin in the prestigious downhill with a time of one minute, 51.43 seconds, was not surprised by the victory.

Bronze for Janet

SAPORO, JAPAN (UPI) — Little Janet Lynn of Rockford, Ill., brought the United States its second medal of the XVI Winter Olympic Games Monday when she placed third and took the Bronze Medal in Women's Figure Skating.

Miss Lynn, 19, put on a spectacular free skating performance—even earning a perfect 6.0 rating from one judge—but it wasn't enough to catch front-runner Beatrix "Trixie" Schuba of Austria, who built an insurmountable lead in the compulsory figures.

Miss Schuba, a tall, 20-year-old native of Vienna, turned in a routine performance, playing it safe in the free skating, to win the Gold Medal. Canada's Karen Magnusson won the Silver Medal.

Miss Schuba is one of the strongest performers of compulsory figures—"designs" on the ice that must be skated before judges—and at the end of the six figures had built up an almost insurmountable score. Dressed in a blue costume with white piping, her free-skating was a "safe" one containing no spectacular crowd-pleasing jumps.

But she did it with precision and the judges thought it was good enough to keep her well in first place with 2,751.5 points and 9 ordinals.

Miss Magnusson had 2,673.2

points and 23 ordinals. Miss Lynn 2,663.1 points and 27 ordinals and Miss Holmes 2,627 points and 39 ordinals.

Julie Lynn Holmes of North Hollywood, Calif., second after the compulsory figures—six designs skated under the close scrutiny of a judges panel—had a poor free skating performance and fell to fourth place in the final standings.

The medal-winning performance by Miss Holmes came after the young U. S. hockey team, inspired by the brilliant goaltending of Mike Curran, pulled off the upset of the Czechoslovakia by stunning heavily favored Czechoslovakia 5-1.

Believe Clemente Signed for $150Gs

PITTSBURGH (UPI) —It took Pittsburgh Pirate General Manager Joe L. Brown only five minutes to sign superstar Roberto Clemente to a 1972 contract for a reported $150,000. "Roberto and I have been getting along for 17 years," Brown said Sunday night at the 36th Annual Dapper Dan banquet. "It wasn't difficult signing him — it wasn't my money."

Terms of the contract were not disclosed, but it was reported Clemente received a raise of $25,000 over his 1971 contract.

Brown then looked around the banquet room and noted other Pirates players who had not come to terms.

"Don't worry, boys," he said. "There's still some money left."

Clemente, Willie Stargell and manager Danny Murtaugh, who led the Pirates to the World Series championship last fall, were honored as the sports figures of 1971 by the Dapper Dans, a charitable sports organization.

ROBERTO CLEMENTE

Brown said he was happy that Murtaugh, who stepped down as manager, would remain with the Pirate organization.

"But we have a fine man following Danny — Bill Virdon," Brown said.

Virdon turned to Stargell and said, "Willie, you put on one of the best hitting streaks last year. Roberto, you're the greatest. Danny, I just hope some of your ability will rub off on me."

Midway in the banquet, Astronaut James Lovell, who made three trips to the moon, made an entrance.

Toastmaster Bob Prince, Pirate broadcaster, told Lovell: "How can you make three trips to the moon and keep in touch with the earth? Everytime I go through a tunnel my car radio goes dead."

Umpire Tom Gorman, paying tribute to Murtaugh, recalled a dispute they had last season.

Murtaugh, disputing a strike call, asked Gorman to check with first base umpire Billy Williams.

"I've got news for you," Gorman told Murtaugh. "Billy Williams and I aren't speaking."

Andretti Sees Light

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — "Life's two darkest years" ended suddenly and happily for Mario Andretti. With help from a Beglian buddy, he was back in worldwide auto racing headlines.

"I've been itching for 1972 to begin," said the little Italian-American. "My career was dented and bruised in 1970-71. Lots of bad luck. When it rained, it poured."

The 1969 Indianapolis 500 winner coupled talents Sunday with Jacky Ickx of Brussels to wheel a sometimes-chugging Ferrari to an easy victory in the six-hour Daytona Continental.

"You might say it was a Ferrari family affair," said Andretti. "Our chief competition was our own team. As long as Ferraris run properly, they'll run all the way to victory lane."

Four miles behind the Andretti-Ickx exhaust on the 3.8-mile Daytona road course was another Ferrari handled by Ronnie Peterson of Sweden and Tim Schenken of Australia.

Alfa Romeo's outgunned team salvaged third on the driving talent's of Englishman Vic Elford and Helmut Marko of Austria. The Alfa was 18 miles in arrears of the winning Ferrari.

Clay Regazzoni of Switzerland and Brian Redman of England survived two minor wrecks to grab fourth and give famed carmaker Enzo Ferrari three of the top four places.

"It broke a jinx for me," said Andretti, a three-time U.S. Auto Club driving champion.

"Running minus one out of 12 cylinders couldn't even beat us. It's a sweet victory... winning never gets old."

The Italian-born driver from Nazareth, Pa., while relishing the Ferrari triumph, was especially eager to dive into Championship Car competition that includes the Indy 500.

"I feel confident for two reasons this year. First, I have new and much better cars all around. Secondly, I am tied up with what should be a fantastic Parnelli Jones entry on the championship series."

Knicks Nip 76ers; Walker Scores 56

It's not good for a team to have one player doing all the scoring," said Chet Walker. It was good for the Chicago Bulls Sunday, as Walker set a club record with a 56-point performance against Cincinnati in a 119-94 victory over the Royals.

Walker, in his 10th season in the National Basketball Association—and his third with the Bulls—shattered the Chicago record of 47 points, established by Bob Love against Milwaukee on Mar. 15, 1970.

After the best performance of his NBA career, the modest Walker said: "I don't delude myself in saying that getting 50 points is not a great achievement but that has never been a goal for me. I never scored that many points in college or high school."

The 6-foot-7, 220-pound forward said he "was feeling good before the game and I knew that I was going to do pretty well."

But that well? "Defenses today are such

Sabres Stun Bruins, 8-2

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The final score of Sunday night's National Hockey League game between the Boston Bruins and Buffalo Sabres was 8-2, just about as expected. Only thing was ... Buffalo won.

That was surprising, to say the least, since the East Division-leading Bruins hadn't lost in 13 games and the cellar-dwelling Sabres hadn't won in seven.

It was the most goals in Buffalo's two-year expansion history and the most against the Bruins this season as the Sabres pumped 37 shots at beleaguered goalie Ed Johnston, with Rick Martin and ex-Bruin Jim Lorentz each scoring twice.

"We were outskated, outthrust and outthought ... everything," said Boston Coach Tom Johnson. "It was the worst game the Bruins have played since I've been coach."

Elsewhere, New York and Toronto battled to a 2-2 tie, Montreal beat Vancouver 4-2, St. Louis and Philadelphia tied 2-2 in their first meeting since a Jan. 6 riot, Chicago blanked Minnesota 5-0 and Detroit walloped California 8-2.

Buffalo began its rout of the mighty Bruins with three goals in less than three minutes late in the first period by Don Luce, Gerry Meehan and Martin. Mike Byers, Eddie Shack and Lorentz made it 6-0 before Mike Walton scored for Boston late in the second period.

Philadelphia's Spectrum bulged with a sellout crowd, there were extra police all over the place and security people were in the stands and behind both benches. But trouble never came and the game between the Blues and Flyers could have been promoted by the Peace Corps.

The last time the Blues visited the City of Brotherly Love, a fan poured beer on St. Louis Coach Al Arbour and before order was restored Arbour and a St. Louis player had stitches in their heads and four Blues were arrested and face a hearing in April.

The game itself was reduced to 62 seconds in the second period, when Gary Sabourin and Andre Dupont scored for St. Louis, and 57 seconds in the third, when Simon Nolet and Bobby Clarke matched for Philadelphia.

St. Louis Bowler Blasts 890

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Ray Orf, 30-year-old St. Louis bowler, rolled two perfect games and a third game of 290 Sunday to beat an American Bowling Congress record by four pins.

Orf bowled the three-game series of 890 in a mixed league at West Bowl. He was bowling with his son Richard, age 7.

Orf, who averages 212 in league play, missed a strike to start the first game. He then got 35 strikes in a row.

Records show the previous high mark for three games of 886 was set Oct. 25, 1939, by Oile Brandt of Lockport, N.Y.

Western Welcome made the 1972 debut of Horse-of-the-Year candidate, Cougar II, an a shade slower than the track and stakes mark of 1:40 2-5 set by Nodouble in 1970.

Western Welcome Wins
Western Welcome returned $9.80 to win and earned $35,100. The house earned only $9,600 last year.

In the richest event of the weekend, Donald Ball's Going Straight ($7,000) romped to an 11-length win in the $61,900 Down Handicap at Gulfstream Park.

Going Straight, totting 116 pounds, was never seriously threatened by Mr. Pow Wow, the high-weighted favorite at 123 pounds, who edged out long shot Dot Ed's Bluesky by a head for second money.

Guided by jockey Mickey Solomon, Going Straight went the 5-year-old son of the distance in 1:48 1-5 to take Promised Land since he took a down first money of $37,140—$33,270 to the elder Aristone.

For Young Grier Jones

Suddenly... He's Winner

HONOLULU (UPI) — Young put on one of his patented Grier Jones, the 1968 NCAA golf titlist, sat with a bottle of soda pop in his hands after winning the $200,000 Hawaiian Open Sunday in a sudden death playoff over chunky Bob Murphy.

Jones, 26, from Wichita, Kan., and a graduate of Oklahoma State, was reflecting on his 3½ years on the pro tour.

"I can say that I really worked hard for 3½ years," he told newsmen after pocketing the $40,000 winner's check.

Jones dropped a two-foot putt for a par on the first playoff hole after ending the 72-hole tournament with a 14-under-par 274 with Murphy. Murphy had just missed a three-footer and finished with a bogey on the par-four 15th, which was being used as the first playoff hole.

The 15th had never given Jones any trouble during the four days. But Murphy, who was seeking his first tournament win since the Hartford Open in 1970, had a bogey and three pars on that eventful hole. Jones had two birdies and two pars.

Murphy, a cigar-smoking pro from Jacksonville, Fla., said the hole that cost him the tournament was the 14th in which he scored a bogey five after being 15-under and a shot ahead of Jones who was playing ahead of him.

Murphy's second shot was in the sand trap and he missed his third. His fourth hit the cup and bounced out.

Picking up third place money was Charles Coody who fashioned a four-under-par 68 for a 275 total. Marty Fleckman of Port Arthur, Tex., was right behind with 276 after carding a four-under-68. Tied at 278 were Bob Rosburg, John Schlee, Bunky Henry, Jim Jamieson and Curtis Sifford.

Arnold Palmer, almost looking the Arnie of old, tried to

The Famous Five, led by Ron Brandt (633) and Van Porter (614) fired a 3106 score to capture the 34th annual Kingston Bowling Association team gross championship.

Big Bob Shelighner anchored with a 290 solo and 701 series, as Hanaman's No. 1 squad won team net honors with a 3012 blast. Capt. John Hanaman rolled 640 in the leadoff spot and John Finch added 609.

In the 290 game, Shelighner left the 4-pin on a "high" hit in the first frame, converted the spare and then fired 11 strikes in a row.

Famous Five, a 915-average team, rolled 2911 in the wood with 929, 1025, 957 and received 195 pins handicap. The first place score was worth $600.

Hanaman's picked up $200 first prize for their 3012 net off slams of 1027, 964 and 1021. A 57-pin handicap gave them 3069 gross.

Promise Land Restaurant placed second with 3091 gross to win $300. Jack Dawkins posted 592 in the leadoff spot. American Legion Post 150's 3076 won third place and $200. The fourth prize of $100 went to the Jones Boys with 3075 gross.

A St. Lawrence University senior, Richard Nicolaysen, withstood freezing temperatures and icy conditions to glide to an easy victory in the Class A competition of Rosendale's Nordic Ski Club's invitational ski jumping tournament here Sunday.

Nicolaysen soared 204 feet on his first attempt and paired it with a 198 footer to accumulate 190.1 points, well ahead of second place Thomas Goodwin at 175.5.

Poor weather conditions and the breakdown of snowmaking equipment forced delay of the tournament that was originally slated as a two-day affair. Almost a dozen of the original field of 50 competitors deserted the contest Sunday when they became convinced the slope could not be restored to satisfactory condition.

Seventeen falls resulting mostly from the ice punctuated the practice jumping and tournament rounds. Fatum's Ambulance of Kingston took two jumpers to Benedictine Hospital in Kingston Sunday afternoon after they were injured in the jumps. They were identified as Terry Morgan, 18, of 191 Broadway, Saranac Lake and Larry Stone, 26, of Salisbury, Conn. Both reportedly suffered leg injuries.

Dave Harris of Brattleboro, Vt., flew 208 feet in his second jump to roll up a 193.4 score and capture the Class B event. Mount Beacon skiers took the next three places headed by Phil Jackson at 177.7.

Another Brattleboro jumper, Don West, took home a first place. West paired distances of 191 and 193 feet for 174.2 points to lead Quebec's Jacques Charland and Dean Schambach of Rosendale.

New Hampshire's Tom Fulton of Hanover High School won the Junior Division with a 144.8 score.

Saturday's scheduled jumping turned into a day of physical labor for the skiers who shed their poles and goggles for bags of snow. The volunteers struggled to cover the ice beneath the 70 meter jump and used compressors and pumps borrowed from local residents to make the slope suitable.

Scores and distances were significantly lower than expected due to the slick hill. Even Nicolaysen, the Class A winner, managed only 14 points of a possible 20 points in his finishing effort, and the lower finishers fared even worse.

Jack Hosick of Franklin Pierce College achieved the longest flight of the day, a 205 footer, but hit his hand on the slope, and even a subsequent 201 foot leap couldn't raise him higher than fourth.

Art Tinkle Jr., son of the former national ski jumping champion and Olympic coach, was the third place finisher in Class A, scoring 169.5.

The list of those who placed in their classes despite falls included Lake Placid's Chuck Berghorn, fifth in Class A, Schambach; and two junior jumpers, John Farnham and Peter Guest of Hanover.

"We worked all day Friday," said Art Tinkle Sr., who supervised the tournament. "Our machines produced enough snow to cover the ice but we just ran out of time."

After the morning's labor, the contestants used Saturday afternoon for practice jumping.

UCLA, Marquette Headin' for Clash

By United States International minutes remaining after scoring a team high 22 points and collecting 10 rebounds.

Coach Al McGuire of Marquette watched his son, Allie, provide the sparks that eventually burned up DePaul as the Warriors marched to their 17th consecutive victory 79-61.

Third-ranked Louisville, loser earlier in the week to Memphis State, bounced back into the Missouri Valley Conference lead with a convincing 92-75 romp over Drake as the Cardinals drew strength from Ron Thomas' 21 points. Jim Price's 20 points and Bill Bunton's 16 rebounds.

Sixth-ranked South Carolina put down an upset effort by Clemson that saw both teams record 48 fouls before South Carolina put an end to the battle, 62-58, on one and one free throw conversions by Rick Aydtel, Kevin Joyce and Tom Riker. Riker's 13 points were tops for the Gamecocks.

No. 7 Penn, paced by 6-foot-8 junior forward Phil Hankinson's 33 points, routed Dartmouth, 86-66, to remain tied with Brown for the Ivy League lead.

Ohio State's Buckeyes, eighth-ranked, assured themselves of at least a tie in the Big Ten with a 79-69 triumph over Wisconsin Saturday night despite an early benching of 7-foot center Luke Witte in the second half because of personal foul problems.

In Sunday's only major action, Creighton upset 17th-ranked Jacksonville, 71-66, as Gene Harmon and Mark Mirsky combined for 34 points.

What's behind Volkswagen's new low price?

The Best Warranty This Side of a Rolls-Royce

You can't put a price on the warranty you get with a Volkswagen. You see, a Volkswagen warranty runs twice as long as anybody else's small car warranty. And only one car, the Rolls-Royce, has one better.

Here's how ours works. All you do is maintain the car according to the Volkswagen maintenance schedule. If any factory part is found to be defective in material or workmanship within 24 months or 24,000 miles, whichever comes first (except normal wear and tear on service items) any U.S. or Canadian VW dealer will repair or replace it free of charge. See your dealer for details.

More Than 5,000 Inspections Per Car

The story behind our warranty starts at the factory. Where 1,104 nit-picking inspectors have one job, and one job only. To find something wrong with a Volkswagen before that Volkswagen finds its way out of the factory.

Every one of the more than 5,000 parts that go into a VW is carefully examined. Some of them get the once-over two or three times. If one of our inspectors is unhappy with only one of the parts, the whole car gets pulled off the line. Sometimes we pull as many as 225 VWs a day. But it's worth it. We pick the lemons. You get the plums.

The Most Advanced Service System In The World

No other car maker anywhere can offer you Medi-car, Volkswagen's ultrasensitive Electronic Diagnosis. It's designed to spot problems in your Volkswagen when they're at the minor adjustment stage. Long before they can do any real damage to your car or your wallet. Every one of our dealers has VW Diagnosis. And you get the first four check-ups free with a new VW.

The Highest Resale Value

Based on what's happened in the past, no other economy car on the road holds its value after 3 or 4 years as well as a Volkswagen. So, if you're thinking about buying a new car, think about what it's going to be worth when it's an old car. Because when the time comes to part company with your VW, you won't be left holding the bag.

Unless that's what you carry your money in.

The Most Highly Developed Car Ever Built

Economy cars come and go. Volkswagens just keep going. One reason is our 1600cc aluminum-magnesium engine. It's rear-mounted for better traction on slick roads. And it's air-cooled for better performance in heat waves or cold spells. The underside of the Beetle has a steel, sealed bottom to protect its vital parts. The outside of the Volkswagen carries 13 pounds of paint. The body of the car is put together so precisely that it's practically airtight. In all, more than 2200 changes and advances have gone into today's Beetle. And most of them were designed to make the car run better and last longer. Not just look different.

No other car maker has put so much time and so many advances and changes into one car. You see, there's more to a Volkswagen than meets the eye.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A wonderful day and evening to project your ideas and points of view so those who think differently or are at a distance will have a clearer understanding of what you have in mind for the future. A fine day, evening to decide on a point of view and life philosophy.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You have many ideas buzzing through your mind and it would be well to make notes so you won't forget any important points. Others can help you with whatever is of a puzzling nature. Assist a good friend in p.m.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You now can see through any problems you may have with others and find the right solution for them. Listen to advice of bigwigs. Expand your thinking for greater prosperity. Don't be envious of others.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) If you listen carefully to what associates have to say, you can now gain their full cooperation which has been difficult before. If one opposes you, use tact. Losing your temper will get you nowhere.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You can get much work done well if you stop procrastinating and start early with vim and vigor. Discuss your good ideas with fellow workers. Proceed along right line.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You have the right idea where recreation is concerned, so save some time for that now. Show more affection for mate than you have been doing. You can make this a particularly productive day, p.m. as well as a happy one.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

TIME LIMIT? (Q.) I just want to go up to Richard and hug him tight and tell him I love him.

He is my brother's friend. My brother is 16 and Richard is too. I'm 14. A couple of times he has been very nice to me. Once he called on the phone to talk to me, not my brother.

Do you think I am old enough to date him if he asks me? If he likes me enough, I think we should start dating soon because he has leukemia and doesn't expect to live but about four more years.

Other people say he is ugly but to me he is beautiful. He has such a great personality and I love him.—Little Sister in Oregon.

(A.) You may be mistaking sympathy or hero worship for love. You, or he, may be over-dramatizing his danger. But if what you say is correct, he, naturally, has other things besides girls on his mind.

Be nice to him. You are a little young to be dating anyone now, but next year would be all right. Let him make the first move, if any.

And be sure that you do not let human kindness sway you into some mistakes that you might have to live with much longer than four years.

LONG HAIR: (Q.) My hair has been long three years. Just over my collar. All of a sudden my father says it has to be shorter.

My brother brought home two of his friends from where he works in New York. Both of them had shoulder length hair. One had a mustache. My father didn't say a word about their long hair. He and Mother were very nice to them.

I can't see why they treat me one way and my brother another way.—Nearly 15 in Virginia.

(A.) Those two young men were guests. A guest is temporary. He is not criticized so long as his behavior is reasonably acceptable.

Your brother is apparently grown. At least he is on his own. When you are his age your parents will recognize your right to choose your own friends and way of life.

If your hair is over your collar it is pretty long. It probably needs to be shorter.

RECYCLING CARAVAN—A fleet of National Guard trucks from the Kingston Service Battery prepares to leave for Newburgh from the New York State Armory on Manor Avenue Saturday with a cargo of 65 barrels of bottles and jars collected during the recent five-day recycling drive. More than 31,000 pounds of glassware was collected by the Environmental Task Force and conservation commissions and volunteer groups from eight Ulster County townships. The event marked the first county-wide glass drive held in this area. Another drive is set for April 8, 9 and 10. (Todd photo)

Anti-Busing Bill: Support Needed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — At least 139 House members back a move to force the House to take a vote on a proposed constitutional amendment to outlaw busing to achieve racial balance in public schools. This is far short of the 218 signatures required to force a piece of legislation out of committee and bring it to the floor for a vote; but the representatives who have signed the petition thus far are from 33 states, indicating a wide base of support. A list of the signatures, obtained by UPI, showed backers among lawmakers from all Southern and Border states, except for Arkansas, and from Massachusetts, Michigan, California and New York. Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., has had the proposed amendment bottled up in his Judiciary Committee, although he had promised to hold hearings on it starting March 1. Southerners began collecting signatures on the discharge petition in August and have continued the effort despite Celler's plans to hold the hearings. House GOP leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan is among those backing the move. The amendment would have to pass both the House and Senate by at least a two-thirds vote and then be ratified by three-fourths of the states before it could become part of the Constitution. The proposed amendment: "No public school student shall, because of his race, creed or color, be assigned to or required to attend a particular school." The proposal was introduced by Rep. Norman Lent, R-N.Y., in a move designed in part to avoid a Southern label being put on the effort. Scores of amendment proposals have been introduced in the House, and several have turned up in the Senate. All are aimed at overturning recent federal court decisions calling for cross-town pupil transfers to achieve racial balances in schools.

'Value-Added Tax': Slim Hopes of Passing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — If it decides to propose a "value-added tax," the administration hopes it will be able to raise $18 billion each year and cut homeowners' property taxes in half. Those details of White House thinking were revealed in documents handed out to members of the Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations, one of two groups asked by President Nixon to study new ways of school financing. The documents, obtained by UPI, indicate that Nixon hopes to accomplish two things: —Slash all residential property taxes about in half by eliminating that part of local property taxes which now pays for operating elementary and secondary schools. —Encourage all states to "assume virtually all responsibility" for the public schools, with help of money coming from the value added tax instead of from property taxes. Nixon has never talked directly of using a value-added tax — a form of national sales tax — to finance schools, but it became known that it was under consideration when he asked for a study of it. The tax would bring in revenue at each stage of a product's manufacture, to reflect value added to the product at that step. It could, for instance, be paid at every step from the mine to the factory to the wholesaler and ultimately by the consumer. Levies such as sales taxes are considered regressive because they hit every consumer equally, rich and poor alike. The tax is exacted not on the basis of what the consumer earns, but on what he spends — and the poor thus are hit more heavily in proportion to the rich. The tax would have no chance of passing Congress this election year, and Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, has said it could not pass in any year.

Funds, Plan Sought For Lakes Cleanup

WASHINGTON (UPI) — One of the Senate's top Republicans is urging the Nixon administration to provide funds and push a comprehensive plan to clean up the Great Lakes. Assistant Senate Republican Leader Robert P. Griffin noted Saturday that the program drawn up by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) last year had not yet been funded. The Michigan senator cited published reports that the administration does not intend to provide money for the proposal. In a letter to George P. Shultz, director of the Office of Management and Budget, Griffin said he is aware of the budget constraints but "I believe it is vital to at least begin action this year ..."

Several Great Lakes projects were included in the 1973 budget compiled last month, but none would deal with a comprehensive effort to cleanse the lakes of pollutants and prevent further pollution. "I would certainly hope that a Great Lakes program could be included in the President's forthcoming environmental message," Griffin said. The message is due to be sent to Congress by the end of the month, but very little money — if any — is expected to be for Great Lakes cleanup. The 1970 Water Quality Improvement Act authorized up to $20 million for antipollution efforts on the Great Lakes, but the administration has asked for only $2 million. A comprehensive program was estimated to require at least $1 billion funded over a period of years. Griffin said he has not seen a report on the EPA program, but understands it calls for $112 million and follows a six-point plan he outlined last April. His plan would have empowered the EPA administrator to set deadlines for phasing phosphates out of detergents, establish a Great Lakes laboratory, start a project to dispose of any air pollution and solid waste generated in a water pollution attack, increase federal antipollution funds and set up a program to monitor all Great Lakes polluters. Griffin told Shultz that because the United States shares the lakes with Canada, any U. S. program would require a negotiated agreement with the northern neighbor. He said the White House told him that it hoped for "final agreement" with Canadian authorities on Great Lakes negotiation "sometime early in the spring." "Obviously, if agreement is reached soon, it would appear necessary for the United States to develop a domestic program to implement this agreement," Griffin said.

Bus Hijacker Captured

SALISBURY, N.C. (AP) — At one time during an 80-mile-per-hour ride with a bus hijacker, 15-year-old Shirley Jane Clookey meekly retrieved the man's lost gun and gave it back to him. "I was scared, and afraid of what he might do," she said of the incident. The gun, it was discovered later, was loaded with blanks. Shirley, of Largo, Fla., was one of 10 passengers on a Continental Trailways bus when it left High Point, N.C., early Sunday. Minutes later, a man pulled a pistol and told the bus driver he was taking command. He forced the driver to leave Interstate 85 and drive along side roads. Miss Clookey said the hijacker forced her and another girl to collect all of the passengers' watches and jewelry in paper bags. Then, she said, he told her to stay on the bus and said he would let her out in Florida. The other passengers and the driver were ordered off. Pursued by at least 15 police cars with sirens wailing, the hijacker steered a 40-mile zig-zag course through four central North Carolina counties, hitting speeds of 80 miles an hour. He forced Miss Clookey to lie across his lap, his gun at her head. At one point, he dropped the gun and asked the girl to find it and return it to him. She said she did. At Salisbury, the bus crashed through an empty oil tanker and a police car set up as a roadblock, then collided with a car parked behind the barrier. The driver of the car, 69-year-old Brooks Phillips of Salisbury, was injured seriously. The bus came to a stop on its side in a ditch. Miss Clookey and her abductor escaped serious injury. Police arrested Donald Ray Henderson, 22, of Atlanta and charged him with 17 felonies, including kidnaping and armed robbery, in the hijacking. He was being held under $64,000 bond. Authorities at the Broward Medical Center in Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., said Henderson escaped Friday while being taken to surgery. He was an inmate at the South Florida Mental Hospital.

morning at a state prison camp near Norton, Va. Blanchard, who escaped Jan. 29 from the new Kent County Jail in eastern Virginia where he was serving 15 years for armed robbery, surprised guards at the Norton Camp and freed Erps, who was serving a 10-year term for breaking and entering. The men stole two .38 caliber pistols and headed for the Kentucky state line. They were stopped by Virginia troopers in a routine check and, according to police, came out of their car shooting. Trooper R. D. Oaks was shot in the head and hospitalized in "poor" condition. The fugitives stole a farmer's truck, drove it as far as they could up a snow-covered mountain and fled on foot, pursued by troopers and bloodhounds. The dogs tracked them into a mine tunnel in Black Mountain, which straddles the Virginia-Kentucky line. Erps and Blanchard came out of the tunnel on the Kentucky side and sneaked into the home of Worley Sturgill, a miner. They held the family, which included Mrs. Sturgill and three young children, captive. Kentucky troopers, notified by Virginia authorities, moved into the area and Wright noticed the Sturgills seemed to be the only family not curious enough about the activity to look outside their windows. He went to see Sturgill, an old friend, then began the negotiations that led to the fugitives' surrender.
